

FOOD and EMERGING MEDIA

speaker series

The Food and Emerging Media Speaker Series is designed to examine the role of emerging media and new technology on the exploration and articulation of topics focusing on the many facets of food. The series will be hosting artists, farmers, architects, curators and historians whose work and research focus on how technology has mediated our relationship to food. The amazing line-up of speakers will be talking about the ways in which they are using models of sustainability, social networking and emerging technologies to influence (and hopefully change) our tightly veiled food production systems, the realm of gastronomy and the food that we eat.

ALL TALKS ARE FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

speakers:

Tue Mar 2 @ 5:30pm CFA Rm 235

Dan and Jane Oles, Farmers

Owners of Oles Farm/Promised Land CSA,
Alden, NY

Date & Time TBA

Kathy High

New Media Artist and Curator
Professor of Video and New Media at RPI
A Founder of the Bio Arts Initiative at RPI

Date & Time TBA

Amanda McDonald Crowley

Executive Director, Eyebeam, New York
Founder of the Food and Technology
Research Group at Eyebeam

Tue Feb 23 @ 6pm CFA Rm 232

David Szanto

Food Historian, Concordia University
Communications and Outreach Director for
The University of Gastronomic Sciences in Colorno, Italy

Date & Time TBA

Neil Coletta

Food Historian, Artist
Assistant Director MLA in
Gastronomy Program at Boston University

Date & Time TBA

Carmen Trudell & Jenny Broutin

Professors of Architecture Technology, CUNY
Founding Partners of Fluxxlab and
The Vertical Farming project

Sponsored by the UB Department of Media Study, UB Department of Philosophy, UB Department of Visual Studies,
UB Department of Architecture, and the UB Canadian-American Studies Committee

Organized by Stefani Bardin in conjunction with her class DMS 418
Food and Emerging Media
Department of Media Study UB
716.645.0942
www.petrifiedunrest.net